NEXT YEAR

Send Canoes To English Regatta?

Proposal has been made by Sidney veteran, G. D. Sprot, of Beacon Ave., that a fitting addition to planned festivities for the centennial celebrations next year would be the presentation of Indian war canoes with their crews at Henley Regatta next year.

The regatta is a prominent water sports event in England, and Mr. Sprot feels that the novel appearance of such war canoes would represent considerable valuable publicity to the province and its centenary.

Mr. Sprot was a patient in Veterans' hospital recently when the occupant of the next bed was a Cowichan Indian, Herman Henry, veteran, Indian councillor and members of the Victoria soccer team. The result of his conversations with his companion led Mr. Sprot to sponsor the idea of sending about five or six canoes with their crews to England.

The canoes could be displayed at B.C. House prior to the event and could be augmented by Indian art and B.C. industrial exhibits, he suggests.

Six Fish and One Smile For Day's Work

Fishing is spotty, reports a South Pender reader.

On Saturday, Len Henshaw, with his brother, John, and the latter's son, Brad, spent the day at East Point.

They returned with three salmon and three grise, but only one fisherman wore a broad smile. He was four-year-old Brad Henshaw, who had hooked all three salmon and one of the grise.

It all goes to show that fish have no respect for age.

FROM JAMBOREE

Roland Shanks and Jonathon Slater have returned home following their attendance at the Fourth National American Scout Jambores, at Valley Forge, Penn.

BIG DAY, AUGUST 10

Three Prepare Setting For Galiano Festival

A committee of three has been appointed to supervise the fifth annual Galiano Festival, which will be held on Saturday, Aug. 10. They are Mrs. D. A. New, Mrs. Ernest Lorenz and Mrs. Gerald Steward.

Arrangements are under way to make the event the best ever held. The Review has been informed. There will be a draw for prizes for the lucky tickets held on the advance sales of dinner tickets for adults and children. Among other prizes to be drawn for that day will be a 30-inch by 40-inch painting (sea-scene) by the famous artist

Vanguard Purchase Leads To Speculation at Airport

Retirement of the DC3 airliners of T.C.A., which have served Patricia Bay for many years is arousing some curiosity among regular patrons of the mainland connection here.

The airline has announced that by mid-1961 the DC3's, North Stars and Super Constellations will have been retired in favor of Vanguard and Viscount machines for domestic routes and Douglas DC8 Jetliners for overseas runs.

The Viscount and Vanguard, which both bear the name of the Irving Sinclair, of San Francisco and Galiano. This is a beautiful picture from a notable painter.

An outstanding event will be the free log bucking contest open to all comers with good cash prizes. It is hoped that there will be a large number of contestants in classes for men and women.

There will be several other free contests of skill along with all the usual fun of the fair.

Free transportation to and from the government wharf at Sturdies Bay has been arranged for by the committee in charge.

British Vickers concern linked with Rolls-Royce, which built the engines, are brothers. The newer Vanguard is a larger version of the Viscount, providing accommodation for 82 first-class or 102 tourist class passengers at 420 m.p.h. and providing cargo space for 10 tons.

The earlier Viscount has a bare minimum of cargo space and critics at the airport, and there are many, assert that the smaller machine will not be adequate for the local run with its considerable freight requirements.

Speculation locally sees the Viscount by-passed for the local run in favor of the North Star while the latter is still in service, to be ultimately replaced by the larger Vanguard as it comes into service.

FAMILIAR HERE

Viscount is already a familiar sight at the airport, although it is not in regular service here. The very clean lines and large windows are accompanied by the characteristic white of the turbines which drive the propellers. Vanguard has not made its first appearance. It is a turbo-jet machine of the same lines, though on a larger scale. Speculation here is neither denied nor confirmed by the airline staff. No official announcement has yet been made.

Navy Fountains at Pender Island

The ultra-modern destroyer escort Skeena tests her "pre-wetting" gear in Bedwell Harbor, Pender Island. Warships thus equipped envelope themselves in water before atomic fallout occurs so that radioactive dust cannot settle on exposed surfaces. The smooth contours of the ship allow the "hot" water to run off quickly, greatly reducing radioactivity. Pre-wetting apparatus similar to that in the Skeena is being fitted in the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, other new destroyer escorts, modernized frigates and coastal minesweepers. The spray treatment is one of several developments in RCN ships designed to protect them against atomic attack.—National Defence photo.

NO FREIGHT CHANGE FOR ISLAND

Rumors of impending changes in freight services to Salt Spring Island were scotched this week by Island Freight Services, Ltd., of Victoria.

In a statement to The Review a company spokesman asserted that there is no intention of making any major change in the present service. The company has served the island over many years and the heavy freight trucks are a familiar sight to all users of the Salt Spring Island ferry.

Legion Picnic

Saturday, Aug. 3, is the big day for Saanich Peninsula branch of the Canadian Legion.

On Saturday, members will gather at the Chalet picnic grounds at Deep Cove for the annual picnic. E. L. Clarke, at Sidney 14-Y, is arranging transportation where it is needed.

Resigns

REV. DR. A. K. McMINN

Minister at Brentwood United church, Rev. Dr. A. K. McMinn, of Deep Cove, has announced his resignation from the pastorate of the church and will resume residence in retirement at his permanent home in the near future. The minister relinquished charge of the church this week, at the end of July. Dr. McMinn, in announcing his departure, noted that he had undertaken the work with a view to helping the people to get fully organized and under way in their new church by June or July of this year. He has been on the retired list since last June on account of his health and is unable to continue. Expressing his regret at the coming departure, Dr. McMinn observes that during his ministry the organization, furnishing and financing have been advanced, work has been furthered in completing the building and providing accommodation for the Sunday school. A new Hammond organ is also being purchased. A "promising" evening auxiliary has been added to the Women's Association, organized by Mrs. McMinn and membership has increased upwards of 50 per cent. No successor has yet been chosen.

Sidney Day Raises $2,000 For New Hall

Not profit from Sidney Day this year amounted to $2,286, announced Treasurer R. P. Cornish at Tuesday evening's meeting of Sanscha.

The figure is still subject to a minor revision, warned the treasurer, as one account has not been finally settled.

The community hall association now holds $11,049, with pledges of another $3,000.

New Hospital at Ganges Is Progressing on Schedule

H. C. Gieseler, chairman of the building committee, announces that the work on the new Gulf Islands hospital, under construction at Ganges, is proceeding on schedule, with just over 30 per cent of the work now completed.

The reinforced concrete is completed for the basement walls and the main floor, and this will soon be finished.

The plumbing and electrical work is in progress and the studding for the interior walls of the main floor is nearly completed. The frame of the nurses' residence is up and the roof installed. This is the new 20-

Big Crowd at Wharf Greets Successful Drill Team Here

—Three Trophies Gained

An almost unprecedented crowd attended at Sidney wharf on Sunday afternoon to greet the return of the 'Sidney Girls' Drill Team upon its successful venture to Anacortes. The team, which was making its maiden appearance in a competitive demonstration, returned with two gratifying trophies. The girls gained second place in the drill team classification and won the Anacortes Mariners' Pageant trophy for third place in overall bands and marching units. Accompanying the success of the drill team was the award to Sidney queen, Barbara Whipple for first place in the decorated car class. Barbara, accompanied by her princesses, Lorri Thorne and Diane Tuttle, travelled in a convertible decorated with placards and decorations from Sidney. The car was 19 points ahead of its nearest competitor.

The drill team, under the direction of Mrs. F. Starr and Mrs. E. Stimpson, competed with between 12 and 15 bands and about 12 marching units in the American city. They reached within four points of first place. Performance of competitors was judged along the main route as there was no display at any central point.

Record Crowds Swamp Car Parks at Summer Concerts

More than 10,000 visitors swarmed to Butchart Gardens during the four summer concerts presented in the Brentwood gardens by Victoria Symphony Orchestra. In addition to local residents, visitors included travellers from all parts of the continent.

With improved traffic controls, vast parking facilities and efficient handling of traffic streams, the presentations this year surpassed

Title To Old Recreation Hall Promised By Pearkes

—Problem Unravelled

Minister of national defence and Saanich Member of Parliament, Hon. George R. Pearkes, V.C., has unravelled the problems of the old recreation hall at Patricia Bay Airport.

Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association has been advised by the minister that the old Hut 48 on the west camp will become entirely the property of the association upon its removal from the airport.

Mr. Pearkes explained that outright title cannot be granted while it stands on national defence department property. Upon its removal, however, says Mr. Pearkes, title will be granted.

The association plans to employ sections of the old building in the new community hall now rising on the North Saanich War Memorial Park on Beacon Ave.

The new hall will be ready for its roof in about a month's time. Delivery of the special trusses for the support of the roof has been promised for August 27. In the meantime foundations have been poured and on Saturday a steady flow of gravel trucks hauled in nearly 300 yards of gravel fill for the floor.

The trucks operated on a voluntary basis and the cost to Sanscha is at a minimum.

Volunteer labor crews are engaged in the past for smooth handling of crowds. Picnic suppers on the lawns were enjoyed by hordes of music-lovers who arrived early to take in the extensive grounds and magnificent gardens.

Attendance places Butchart Gardens concerts in a class beyond any competitor across the Dominion.

In 1954 and 1955 when these concerts were first produced, there were two concerts each summer. The first two years, winners of the "C.I.L. Singing Stars of Tomorrow" were guests with the symphony.

OPERA STARS

This summer and last the C.I.L. scholarships having been discontinued, the guest soloists were picked from the winners of the Metropolitan Opera auditions. These young artists have thus been assisted on their road to success. As these artists are exclusively committed to the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, it took several months of negotiation before they were allowed to appear at the Butchart Gardens summer symphony concerts.

The night Sir Ernest MacMillan conducted the symphony, because of the huge crowds 400 cars had to be discouraged from going in to the grounds at Benvenuto and West Saanich Road. Since then the public has been encouraged to share cars. Visitors promptly responded to this appeal and at the later concerts there were 10 to 20 per cent more passengers per car.

Tan Ross, owner of the Butchart Gardens, with the co-operation of the Central Saanich Police, have efficiently handled the traffic in the immense parking lot. In this way, parking and traffic, although slow at times, have seldom been a problem at any summer concerts since the first year.

Butchart Gardens and the Victoria Symphony Orchestra are achieving international fame through these summer evenings of entertainment.

Approve Island Project

The Pender Islands' centennial project of a children's playground has been approved by the central committee in Victoria, and the celebration date, August 10, 1958, has also been found acceptable.

The playground will be located on an acre of land in connection with the 50 acres of woodland on Canal Road, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Prior this year, and accepted by the provincial government for a campsite and tourist park.

Capt. Roy Beech, president of the local centennial committee, says a meeting will be called on Friday of this week to formulate plans for clearing the area. As much of the labor will be voluntary, it is probable that actual work will not commence until the road paving job on Pender is completed in early fall. It is planned to set up swings, slides, bars, and other recreational facilities, level off a playing field, and build a barbecue.

GANGES BOY IN ENGLAND

The Jubilee Jamboree, August 1 to 12, for Scouts, an Indaba for leaders, and a Rover Moot in England, to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Scout movement is the big event of the year for Queen Scout David Field, Windsor Park group, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. J. Field, of Ganges.

David has arrived in England after flying over the Polar route, which got him there in only 18 hours from Vancouver, and is billeted in Surrey, by the Surrey Boy Scouts. He hopes to visit a number of relatives while in England.

No Action On Plea For Fee

—For Water

No action has been taken on the recent request of Brentwood Waterworks District for payment by Central Saanich Volunteer Fire Department for water used for fire fighting purposes.

The request was made at the last council meeting, when a delegation waited upon the council and asked for $75 monthly.

The municipal fire department has made a practice of charging water tanks on the fire trucks at hydrants in the Brentwood area fed by the Brentwood Waterworks District.

Similar practice is observed in Sidney district, where fire trucks of the Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department fill their tanks from hydrants provided by the Sidney Waterworks District although many of the fires attended are outside the area served by that district.

At the time, Councillor P. F. Warren suggested that a meter be mounted at the hydrant and that the fire department be charged in direct proportion to the amount of water consumed. It has been estimated that the cost by meter would be considerably less than the annual $900 sought.

Hall Bonds Lose Value For Sanscha

Tight money of the recent Dominion government was blamed on Tuesday evening for a recession in the value of bonds held by Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association.

Treasurer R. F. Cornish reported that Canada Savings Bonds purchased several years ago in the amount of $7,000 had fallen in value to a price of 83 per cent. Mr. Cornish asked for authority to dispose of the bonds at their depreciated value. The money is required at the present time for financing the new community hall. Bonds will not regain their par value until 1966.

The meeting approved the sale on the grounds that delay may see them fall still lower.

TWO BRIGADES ATTEND FIRE AT BRICKWORKS

Serious blaze at Bazan Bay Brick and Tile Company's plant on Patricia Bay Highway was averted on Saturday when a prompt alarm brought out volunteer firemen to quell the flames.

Alarm was sounded by W. J. Wakefield, Third St., a passing motorist who saw flames coming from the roof. Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department, augmented by two trucks from Central Saanich Volunteer Fire Department, attended and extinguished a fire in the roof of the building over the kiln before it was permitted to spread. Minor damage resulted to the roof.

The building in question houses the brick kiln and heat of the burning chamber had ignited rafters in the roof.

D-DAY IS DEPICTED ON SCREEN AT SIDNEY THEATRE THIS WEEK

Notable story of the invasion of France by a Canadian writer, "D-Day, the Sixth of June", is brought to the screen at the Gem Theatre, Sidney, on Friday and Saturday of this week. Thursday will see the final showing of "Giant", the story of Texas oil.

The war story is the screen version of the book by Lionel Shapiro.

In cinemascope and color, this film is an outstanding drama of wartime love and duty. This is a finely directed film version of the novel of the same name. The sixth of June, the day that shook the world, is a date that will remain engraved in the minds of future generations as a perilous moment in history. D-Day humanizes this event. Stars are Robert Taylor, who portrays an American army officer who volunteers to take part in the invasion of Normandy; Richard Todd, a superb British Commando officer who spearheads his company in the invasion; Dana Wynter, beautiful English girl and Red Cross worker; Edmond O'Brien, flamboyant colonel who nearly upsets the plans prior to the invasion and Alex Finlayson, a Canadian officer who takes O'Brien on the Dieppe raid without sanction.

"Check-point", at the Gem Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week, is a British film in technicolor depicting sports car racing filmed among the scenic wonders of the Italian Alps.

High-powered racing cars are brought to the screen in the story of an ingenious escape plan that went wrong.

Tense and nerve-racking scenes show Anthony Steel, driving at over 100 m.p.h. in a gruelling race with a co-driver who is a wanted criminal.

There is romance, too, for captivating Odile Versois, torn between her love for Anthony Steel and her knowledge that his fondness for her will have to be shared by his other love, car racing. Stanley Baker plays the cold blooded criminal, while James Robertson Justice is the owner of an industrial empire.

Fred B. Pennock, Lochside Drive, won $10 from the management on Thursday evening.

only one week's notice of the arrangement whereby drill would be performed while marching instead of a display. The girls had only 15 minutes, immediately before the parade in which to acquaint themselves with the mode of salute of the reviewing stand. The parade was characterized by a faultless performance and enthusiastic applause.

TO ANACOTES

The girls of the drill team, with the queen and her entourage were taken to Anacotes on Friday. Accompanying the group on behalf of the sponsoring Sancha was Norman Wright. They enjoyed a fireworks display on Friday, rounded off by a dance.

On Saturday, following the successful demonstration, they enjoyed a salmon barbecue, an inspection of navy ships, boat races and carnival. That the last-mentioned had been popular was evidenced by the fact that some of the girls carried large pandas when they disembarked at Sidney, souvenirs of the carnival.

The girls retained their uniforms during the afternoon of the parade and sold tickets on a Hudson's Bay blanket in order to finance their trip. Three of the girls celebrated a birthday on Saturday and a party was staged in their honor after the dance.

CENTRAL SAANICH HORSEMAN LOOKS TO FINE SEASON WITH PROMISING NEW COLT

Chris Harrison flew to Vancouver to see the Futurity race run at Lansdown Park on July 24, in which 17 B.C.-bred two-year-olds competed. As the name of the race indicates, it is one by which fans judge the probable future form of these young race horses.

He will also visit George Maltby, who has trained his colt, Hindu Fleet, and recently won two races with the Ferncliff-born eight-year-old. Hindu has gamely fought his way to this success after seven years of disappointments. After being refused permission to race at his home track, Sandown Park, he was taken last year to Portland Meadows, in the U.S.A., where, under a different ruling he was permitted to "break his maiden" but following the colt's return to B.C. in charge of the gallant eighty-year-old Irish Fusilier Scotty Cresswell, Mr. Cresswell was temporarily hospitalized in the veterans' ward, and Hindu went partially lame.

NURSED THROUGH
The colt was nursed all through the winter by Chris Harrison who never failed, even when the snow and ice made it impossible for him to drive his car down the slippery hill, to go on foot even before the gravelled hub came, to the stable to clean it, rub the colt's leg with turpentine, and restore his pep with an invalid diet comprising Ferncliff eggs.

Jack Short's recent announcement that the colt in his last race "romped home" to win two lengths ahead, gives hope that this son of Hindu Prince, and Fleet Girl, and near relative of Count Fleet may yet realize the potentialities of his breeding.

While in Vancouver, Chris hopes to visit Mr. and Mrs. A. U. Harper, of 664 East St., North Vancouver, well-known here as "Pa and Ma Harper" when they operated "The Maples tea room" in the days when Mr. and Mrs. Butchart were in residence at Benvenuto, where though, they generously allowed visitors to their garden free picnic accommodation, there was then no public restaurant. They also served the gasoline pump and groceries, and "Pa" claimed he never refused to "fill up" at any hour of the 24. Admittedly, there was then less traffic at the cross roads.

THROUGH DEPRESSION
They were also diligent in helping their neighbors in the time of the "depression" or in any difficulty. "Ma" would go to the Victoria wholesalers, and "Pa" would work in his flower garden, and "Polly Harper" would call to him in good parrot English whenever anyone entered the store.

Recently celebrating their diamond wedding, the fine old couple have received remembrances from many well wishers including Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth; Prime Minister John Diefenbaker; Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross.

RESOLUTIONS CONSIDERED FOR CONVENTION

Saanich To Recommend Education Finance on 80-20 Tax Basis

Revolutionary new proposal for the relief of school taxes was made at Saanich council meeting on Monday evening when it was suggested that the government treat school costs in the same manner as welfare payments are handled, an 80-20 basis.

The suggestion was raised by Councillor J. W. Casey. "If the provincial government considers it reasonable to meet 80 per cent of welfare costs, then it is reasonable that the government accept responsibility for the same proportion of school costs," said Councillor Casey.

Reeve Arthur Ash, who suggested that a provincial income tax would handle the situation, expressed favor for Councillor Casey's suggestion.

It was also suggested that as a new Dominion-Provincial agreement has just been signed for a five-year period, it is unlikely that the government could agree to the imposition of a provincial tax.

Councillor Eugene Diespeckle urged that the students to grade eight be the sole responsibility of the community, but that higher education be assisted by the Dominion government.

80-20 BASIS
The council ultimately decided to recommend to the coming convention that schools be considered in the same light as the welfare system and paid on an 80-20 basis.

Municipal Clerk Gordon Hayward noted that a section of the new Municipal Act imposes an unfair burden on the ratepayer who is seeking office. Under the terms of the new act the candidate for office must not only ascertain that his name is on the current voters' list, but that it appeared on the previous list.

The same section provides that if a voter's name is left off in error he has no means of casting a ballot.

A further feature was brought to light by the municipal clerk when he pointed out that the new act requires that a voter must sign a polling book before casting his ballot. It will add to the time spent at the polls, he stated.

"It stops persons voting early and voting often," suggested Councillor Casey. Mr. Hayward was not convinced. If a voter wants to evade such restrictions he will find a way, he stated.

The municipality will urge repeal of this section.

Tribute was paid when Councillor S. W. Brock had the Councillor Passmore introduced a resolution based on his strong recommendations of two former colleagues.

There are 6,605 bridges on C.N.R. lines in Canada and 748 on C.N.R. lines in the U.S., and more than 150,000 culverts.

The first called for a means test in connection with old age pension bonuses based on income tax. Councillor Brock had urged that in the case where a pensioner pays no income tax, he should receive the bonus. It was felt that such a recommendation was trespassing on

BUS STRIKE AND SHAKESPEARE

ARE NOTED BY TRAVELLER IN BRITAIN
Dash through the Mersey tunnel was enough for a local resident spending his first holiday in his native land for 55 years. He paid his fee of two shillings and two pence to pass through the tunnel. He then drove through Liverpool and hardly saw it at all.

The writer drove earlier from Bedford to Bromsgrove, a small town outside Birmingham. He made his headquarters there while enjoying a tour of the Worcestershire countryside. He passed through Stratford-on-Avon en route to Bromsgrove and was impressed with the number of organized tours in coaches and buses, despite the bus strike. At least 50 such vehicles were in evidence to pay tribute to the memory of William Shakespeare.

"The whole of England is on wheels," he writes. "It is not unusual to see a motorbike carrying mother and father and the sidecar with two or three kids and baggage. They look all washed up in the rain and we have had plenty in the past two weeks."

At Kidderminster, the tourist observed the statue of Sir Howland Hill with its back to the town post office. Rowland Hill was the originator of the penny postage system.

It is at Kidderminster that on market days are staged auctions of all kinds of produce. Sometimes the auctioneer starts low and rises and sometimes he sets a price and the provincial government's preferences and no action was taken.

Second of Councillor Brock's proposals concerned payment of taxes by old-age pensioners. He had noted that in the unorganized territories an old age pensioner could be relieved of the responsibility of paying his taxes, such relief to be a charge against his property. His

NARROW STREETS
The tourists also visited Blockley, the home town of Mr. and Mrs. Parnell, of Ardmore. A quaint old town with streets "so narrow that two fat people would have trouble passing."

"We also saw Harvington Hall," writes the traveller. "Moated and once occupied by priests during the persecution of the 15th century. Here they hid in various holes and passages. Eventually they were brutally murdered."

Bridgenorth was celebrating its 800th year of incorporation as a borough while he was there. Prominence was given to various features of the town used by Charles I.

"There's history everywhere you go," he notes.

Best places to eat are the old inns, says the writer. Cost is usually 7/6 to 10 shillings, about $1 to $1.50.

"It has been raining most of two weeks on and off... mostly on," he concludes.

A NEW RESPONSIBILITY

IN the past many years the problems accompanying the erection of a community hall in Sidney and North Saanich district have been essentially connected with the raising of funds to meet the cost of the project. This aspect of the matter has been overcome to the extent of permitting a major start on the actual construction.

While the project is under way the committees in charge of the job will be largely faced with the lining up of volunteer workers to forge ahead with construction at the minimum possible labor cost.

In the future lies an entirely new responsibility. We are confident that the association will not overlook a very important aspect of a community hall. It must not be permitted to deteriorate into a centre of recreation for the irresponsible. Such an element is not great in this district, but it would be a serious retrograde step if the hall became a common meeting ground for the habitually unoccupied.

Administration of the hall will be a serious and demanding responsibility. It will require the appointment of a responsible committee who will direct the future status of the hall. Upon their administration will rest the ultimate destiny: whether it shall be a useful, commendable contribution to the district, or whether it will be the cynosure of undesirable elements.

ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

A READER of The Review has proposed to the B.C. Centennial committee that part of the centennial celebrations proposed for the province next year be extended across the Atlantic to give prominence to Canadiana in the heart of English sport.

The recommendation, which has been acknowledged without comment by the committee, suggests that a group of Indian war canoes be sent to England to take part in the Henley regatta. The regatta is the national inland water sports of Britain and wide prominence would be given to the novel appearance of Indian canoes.

The proposer points out that funds have been raised for various purposes in connection with the year and that the cost of such a project would be slight in comparison with other projects. It would render a real service to British Columbia by bringing widespread and pleasing publicity to the province, he feels.

The suggestion arose from a short stay in the Veterans' hospital when his neighbor was a Cowichan Indian and veteran of the Second World War.

We feel that the suggestion is a sound one and an expression of support by those readers who sympathize with the proposal would contribute to its likely approval by the centennial committee.

YACHTING WATERS

PERHAPS many of us gave too little thought to a recent very welcome announcement that the provincial government, through its department of recreation headed by Hon. E. C. Westwood, will place some form of control on provincial crown lands on the B.C. coast so that some of them can be developed as marine parks. The same department is already working aggressively on development of similar parks and campsites on North Pender Island and on Sidney Island.

Now the principal of retaining suitable crown lands for playgrounds for unborn generations is unquestionably sound. There are undoubtedly thousands of acres of such suitable waterfront lands, with good anchorage, on the northern east coast of Vancouver Island, the northern mainland and the countless islands lying off shore. But we're wondering just what the blanket control of Crown lands will mean in the Gulf Islands and adjacent Vancouver Island waters.

There may be many hundreds of acres of suitable Crown lands on the Gulf Islands with good anchorage and with adequate water supplies which could be converted readily into marine parks. But our guess is that such properties are few and far between. We sincerely hope that we are wrong but perhaps some public organization should look into the matter and get the assurance of Mr. Westwood, The Islands' legislative representative, that the situation is well in hand.

If investigation should prove that there are insufficient such properties, Mr. Westwood would be well advised to arrange forthwith for the outright purchase of such lands so that this district will not be far behind northern areas in the years which lie ahead insofar as public marine parks are concerned.

Reflections From the Past

10 YEARS AGO

A. Sanbury, head poultryman at the Dominion Experimental Station, told an interested Rotary Club in Sidney on Wednesday of the many experiments carried out by his division. The method of selective breeding in White Leghorns, using superior birds bred at Ottawa, were explained. Much work has been done on the grade of head, eye color, and body weight, and of course, production. The detailed observations of days to the first egg and similar data were carefully noted. All experiments were carried out on the families, not on the isolated birds.

To allow merchants and employees to prepare and decorate floats for the Sidney and Sports Day Carnival, Sidney stores will close all day next Wednesday.

Captain Wilson, reporting for the agricultural branch of the Chamber of Commerce, said that the division did not encourage roadside stands. The produce sold seldom conformed to grades, freshness, etc. Question of safety was a matter for the highway patrol and not the agricultural division.

The wishing well at Butchart Gardens was the scene of a raid by vandals last week. Tourists, in the habit of tossing their coins into the pool for good luck have taken to doubling their tossing since news of the theft came out. Two juveniles have been apprehended and precautions have been taken to guard the pool against any possible further theft.

What looks like a ridiculously small piece of hose is displayed in the window of the Sidney Cash and Carry. It cost $75 and is the regular price for a 50-foot roll of new 3/4-inch fire hose. Purpose of the display is to show where the money from public subscription goes.

Officials of the finance committee of the Volunteer Fire Department fund drive report a total of $1,000 received to date. Acknowledged this week are donations from J. Ambrey, D. Craig, N. C. Chappuis,

POWER FAILURE

The power failure last week that lasted over an hour and a half on Salt Spring was due to the falling of a large tree over the line near Nanaimo. The largest sufferer of the break was the huge pulp mill at Crofton.

Mahon Hall, Ganges, was the scene of an enjoyable dance, the proceeds of which helped to pay for the cost of wiring the hall for electric light. During the evening a beautiful electric clock was presented to Gavin Moutat, by N. W. Wilson for residents of the island, in recognition of his efforts to get the electric light brought to the island. Mrs. Moutat was also presented with an electric cake mixer, Mr. Moutat responding. A committee of the Ganges Institute was in charge of the supper.

Local girls' softball team defeated "Unity's" 23-19 this week. Playing without the services of Glenys Jones, provided plenty of opposition in the pitching and catching of Vera Heal, Elsie Gummer, and Kitty Hoare. This makes two victories for the girls of North Saanich; they defeated the "Live Wires" last week.

To mark the closing of the Pender Island school, the principal and Mrs. W. Ernest Sones were hosts to the senior classes at a jolly party and dance in Hope Bay Hall. Numerous games and stunts were performed, then supper was served by the girls under the direction of Mrs. Sones. John Richardson and Mr. Sones supplied the music for the dancing.

L. H. Seebach, a cripple of Sidney, is inventor of a machine demonstrated at the convention in Toronto of the American Association of Workers of the Blind. The machine enables a sighted person to typewrite messages for the blind in Braille. Mr. Seebach calls this machine a convertograph. He has also invented the Braillegraph, a Braille writing machine convenient to carry by a blind person, and an arithmograph, a calculating machine in Braille.

The fourth annual competitions for the Stacey cup for cycling took place with a large crowd to watch the events. Winners of the one-mile open were: 1, Eric Whitehead, Royal Oak; 2, Ken Reid, Royal Oak; 3, Henry Nelson, Victoria. Winners in the under 16 class were: 1, Alan Duval, Royal Oak; 2, Roy Bell, Saanich; 3, Dick Alexander, Deep Cove. The new class for girls was won by Joan Butler, with Laurie McNeil second and Doreen Kennedy third. The featured 84-mile bicycle race for the Stacey trophy was won by Ken Reid for the second year, with Eric Whitehead, second, and John Newman third.

The new Fulford Harbor Horseshoe Club has got away to a good season's start for a long season's play.

Mrs. Bryant and Mrs. A. J. Eaton were hostesses at a most enjoyable silver tea at the White house on Wednesday. Ten was served to close to 50 guests and the sum of $15.10 was realized for St. Mary's church Guild Fund, Fulford. Guests were Mrs. Frank Crofton, Mrs. Best, Mrs. Speed, Rev. J. W. ## The Review's Book Review

"The Cup of Fury," by Upton Sinclair; Channel Press, 185 pp., $3.50.

Strictly this is not a new book, it is a reprint of a book first published last year. It is not a pleasant book and it bears few of the hallmarks of the author's earlier and more famous novels. It is a fervent indictment against liquor. Sinclair states that he has tasted wine but on few occasions in his life although his family was one of many heavy drinkers.

There is a lack of sparkle in the story which detracts from its set purpose. When the author wrote "The Jungle", of which he writes within the pages of this later publication, he chose a grim topic and created a grimmer word story of Chicago. Yet there was a sparkle within its pages which glinted through the tragic aspect and brought the reader to want to read of conditions devoid of any attractive feature. Unfortunately, he is writing here as a man who has a message which transcends need for dressing up. He is very wrong. No message in the realm of temperance can hope to achieve readership without the accompaniment of reader interest. I hesitate to use the word, bigot, for fear of hanging a label of unpleasant implications on the writer above such petty lack of tolerance, yet the manner of writing does suggest a degree of implacability which he denies.

The Cup of Fury is morbid. It is the reminiscence of an elderly man on a subject he finds distasteful. It carries a message, but it carries it inadequately and rather miserably. Instead of ranking as the second Great American Novel... accepting The Jungle in place No. 1... it will be read avidly by the strong opponents of liquor, indifferently by the majority who hold no views and not at all by the fraternity which

"Talking It Over"

PASTOR T. L. WESCOTT, B.A., Sturgeon Baptist Church, Brentwood Bay

"Whom do men say that I the Son of man am?"—Mat. 16:13.

This question was once asked by Jesus Christ of His disciples and drew a variety of answers. Some believed Him to be John the Baptist, others thought He was Jeremiah or some prophet of old come again from the dead. These were indeed strange replies but are they any more strange than answers of today?

Then Jesus placed a far more important question: "But whom say ye that I am?" While we ought to be concerned about what others think of Christ we ought to be far more concerned about our own personal relation to Him.

The answer that pleased Him was "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." If we can answer the same, that He is Lord of our life, then He will be pleased with us in our answer.

condones social drinking. It has none of the sparkle or punch which a great book must possess.

The reminiscences are interesting. It speaks of many notable American writers, but all die early and miserably in their cups.

The successful and acceptable book would be one which could teach temperance in its true sense, that of controlling habits, as distinct from abstinence and which would serve the purpose intended.

Cup of Fury is a sermon to a church full of saints, it is a message to the un-needy, for it will be widely read only by those who strongly agree with it.

I have no quarrel with the sentiments expressed, they are too controversial to be a suitable subject for quarrel. I only quarrel with the inadequacy in which the writer has set out to rectify conditions he deplores. It fails to reach the spot.—F.G.R.

She bore the tempest, meek to winter's rod.
She does not come to mince a prim pavan,
But as exuberant harbinger of Pan,
And Summer's treasure-laden caravan.
When Spring comes, gowned in jade, and golden-shod,
O-Cherry-San
Lifts up her radiant head, and laughs to God.

New Refinery Equipment

Only by building expensive new equipment have gasoline manufacturers been able to keep pace with the development of high-horsepower automobile engines. The tower at the left is part of a "powerformer", the newest in refining equipment. It is designed to meet motorists' demands for better fuels for high compression engines, and produces the necessary high octane gasoline although it does not increase production. The unit shown above is at Imperial's Sarnia refinery, and the company is installing them coast to coast. The Imperial Oil Review warns in its August issue that higher prices for premium gasolines are likely to result if the horsepower race continues. — Imperial Oil Photo.

RECOVERING

Billy Shanks, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Shanks, Beacon Ave., is recuperating at home following medical treatment at Rest Haven hospital.

signed up for the tournaments, table tennis, etc.

JULY 12 Went for a stroll before breakfast. Went to our patrol meeting. We are going to put on a skit today, for the other girls. Played my tournament game (table tennis) and won two games to one; what a surprise!

Went square dancing at 2 and a lot more girls were there.

The fog has finally cleared away, and it isn't too roly. We are told we may see some icebergs. Now it will take six or seven days to get to Liverpool.

Had afternoon tea, and then to the patrol meeting, where we practiced L.R.R.H.

Wrote letters. Another lovely day. Off to bed; ordered ginger-ale.

Diary of a Girl Guide

Betty Bone Reports On England Trip

JULY 4

Here we are on the boat at last, the Empress of Britain. As you can imagine, there is a great deal of excitement. Our stateroom is just lovely. Helen Averil, who is also a Tillicum Guide, and is also representing Saanich Division, is in the same stateroom. We both received telegrams from Woodward's Store in Victoria, and from Auntie Ada. I also received a card from the "Rifles" and a gorgeous bouquet of flowers from my Dad.

The meals are just wonderful, and each table has its own waiter. The weather is hot! We are wearing shorts and blouses—but of course we dress for dinner, and the evening, full uniform. There is a dance tonight. Our time is our own except when we have meetings. Tonight we all sat on deck and sang songs. The breeze was cool, everything just perfect.

JULY 10 Called by the stewardess at 7, went up to the promenade deck for a breath of fresh air before breakfast. Breakfast was very good. I finished last, because I ordered more, I guess. We ate at the first shift, 8, 12:30 and 6:30.

After breakfast, Helen and I went on deck and played deck tennis and shuffleboard until we were pooped. In no time, we were ready for lunch.

Had a wonderful Guide meeting at 1:30. At 3 went swimming. Met a little girl who couldn't swim very well, water was well over her head, so we stayed with her for quite a while. Had a lovely shower, and by the time I dressed, it was time to eat again.

After supper, the girls from our cabin and the one next door, sat around and talked until it was time for our meeting and singing. I'm learning quite a few new songs from other Guides.

Met two Guides in the lounge, who were playing the piano, so I stopped for a while and sang with them. Then along came Louise, a French-Canadian Guide. She has taught me a French song, wasn't that nice of her?

JULY 11, DAD'S BIRTHDAY Breakfast over; quite foggy, can only see about five feet away from the boat.

My patrol, called the "Empress Blues", met out on deck after breakfast and we sang a lot of songs (some Zulu).

Had afternoon tea with Carole and Ellen.

Today was Gala Day. Naturally this meant we had to "dress up". At the table there were balloons and paper hats. I dressed as an Indian. Had to borrow mascara and eyebrow pencil to make up my face. Some of the costumes were

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Lynd entertained friends and neighbors at a musical evening last Wednesday, at their Beauty Rest Lodge.

Feature of the evening was the soloist, Mrs. Johanna Janisch, a house guest at the lodge, from Regina. Mrs. Janisch, a CBC artist, sang, to her own piano accompaniment, selections in English, French, Italian and German—her rich contralto voice delighting her listeners. Mrs. Lynd's sweet, pleasing, soprano, in Ave Marie, also brought pleasure to the gathering, as did a baritone solo by Stan Charman. Dring to me only with thine eyes. Miss Frances Saville, talented local pianist, also entertained with an appropriate composition.

With Archbishop W. Nainby at the grand piano, the 30 guests enjoyed a sing-song of favorites from the First World War on down through the years. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of a most enjoyable evening.

RASPBERRY TEA AT FULFORD IS RAINED OUT BUT CARRIES ON

By B.H.

All a garden party needs is a heavy shower of rain to make it a great success and this was proved at the W.I. raspberry tea on Thursday, at the home of the R. Lee family in Burgoyne Valley. Everything was set up out on the lawn and a small but crowded stall graced the centre. And as people arrived, anxious glances were cast at the heavy clouds banking overhead. The fete was opened hastily by Miss B. Hamilton, who was introduced with equal speed by the W.I. president, Mrs. R. Lee, then the rush began.

But the weatherman, with fiendish glee, started pouring rain everywhere — everyone picked up something and ran for the house. Made it too, nothing got wet except a seat or two and several ladies.

The front room was small and the crowd was large and everyone was happy . . . tea was served over and under heads and passed around without mishap . . . and what a tea! Sandwiches and heaped up dishes of raspberry shortcake and whipped cream. Everyone enjoyed it. And as there were a few things left over from the stall, an auction was started, with the writer as auctioneer. Sold everything too. The proceeds came to about $35 for the afternoon.

Among those helping were Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Gyves, Mrs. A. Davis, Mrs. C. Lee, Mrs. Reddy, Mrs. Ryan and Mrs. F. Reid.

Out of The Mixing Bowl And The Hat Never Quite Had It

By MURIEL D. WILSON.

Today I just puttered. It is rather nice to have a day occasionally with no accomplishment goal set . . . to loiter over breakfast and read the morning paper right through to wander through the garden and note the flowers instead of the weeds . . . to take time to telephone a friend for the sheer pleasure of a bit of blather . . . to shut your eyes to dust and to windows that should be washed . . . to steep your senses in a new book which takes you far away from mundane everyday living. It is a good feeling to walk through a day instead of run. It is fun to simmer instead of boil.

In this age of automation, when practically everything is mechanized why hasn't someone come up with an automatic mattress . . . one that can be turned over without losing your breath, your temper and three fingernails.

I knew it, I knew it would happen . . . after seeing those screwy automatists at the Art Gallery recently I wondered how long it would be before some one offered blank canvases for the public's approval and believe it or not someone has. Yves Klein, in Paris France, has produced blank paintings. He does them with a roller, puts handsome frames around them and actually sells them. He calls these works of art "propositions" and suggests that only the super intelligent will be capable of understanding them by allowing the mind to plunge into the heart of the color. Should you care to plunge, plain black will cost you $50; green, $75; white, $100; and scarlet, $150. I wonder if this Klein chap has been reading that old fairy tale by Hans Christian Andersen "The Emperor's New Clothes".

UTILITARIAN

This is the story of a hat . . . not a utilitarian hat to protect the head from rain or sun but a large, flower-laden hat, beautiful and expensive. A certain lady (we mention no names) saw this hat in a shop window. It reminded her of a hat she owned . . . well, many years ago. It brought back memories of compliments from a person whose opinion mattered a lot. Of late the lady's mirror had held much discouragement, perhaps a new hat, a beautiful new hat was what was needed. She went into the shop. On her head the hat did not ring the bell the lady expected . . . still she was not too disappointed . . . she was not dressed to go with the hat that was it. When worn with the new suit hanging in the cupboard at home it would look different, so she bought the beautiful, the expensive hat.

Strange, even with the new suit the new hat did not create the effect the lady was looking for. What could be the matter? It certainly was a lovely hat. Perhaps one had to be in the mood, and certainly the hat warranted a special occasion. Yes to be sure she would wait for somewhere special to wear it . . . a luncheon or maybe a garden party.

IT NEVER MADE IT

In the meantime the hat was certainly pretty and the lady enjoyed looking at it sitting on the shelf of her cupboard. That was three months ago. Occasions have come and gone. Each time the beautiful hat has been tried on but never did it achieve the effect the lady was looking for. Each time it was returned unworn to the cupboard shelf. And now I am coming to the end of the story . . . the plain fact of the matter is that the hat looks prettier on the shelf than on the lady's head. Forty years have wrought changes that even a beautiful hat can do nothing for.

But let's not end the story on such a sad note. Someday when the little

FAREWELL PARTY FOR TEACHERS LEAVING TO LIVE AT LADYSMITH

About 50 persons gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Mout, Churchill Road, Ganges, on Wednesday, July 24 for a farewell party to honor Mr. and Mrs. Art Hardwick, who are leaving Salt Spring Island to make their home in Ladysmith.

After enjoying a pleasant social period on the big turquoise patio, surrounded by flower beds and centered with a planting area, which overlooks the harbor and Ganges, guests were served refreshments indoors. The rooms were lovely, with vases of gladioli and early pink chrysanthemums. Highlight of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful lamp to Mr. and Mrs. Hardwick by Henry McGill, on behalf of United Church members, in token of their great service in the United Church over the 10 years they have resided on the island. Mrs. Hardwick has taken a very active part in the Sunday school, church, and the evening circle, while Mr. Hardwick has been responsible for the building of small scale chairs, tables and benches for the Sunday school, as well as being a hard working member of the A.O.T.S.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hardwick were well-known island school teachers, and have held night school adult classes in woodwork and dressmaking.

Mr. Hardwick has taught industrial arts at the Salt Spring school, and prior to their marriage, Mrs. Hardwick was teacher of home economics.

Discovery

PROF. A. LOUBATIERES

It was in 1942 that a French physician, Dr. Marcel Janbon discovered a different aspect of the sulfa drugs. He was using the new compound for typhoid cases and observed unusual reactions in some cases. He consulted his pathologist friend, Prof. Auguste Loubatieres, whose research ascertained that the drug lowered the blood-sugar content in diabetics. This was the beginning of a new oral anti-diabetic treatment now bringing relief to sufferers from this disease in all parts of the world.

SOLICITOR

Colin C. Henderson, a graduate of the University of Manitoba and the Manitoba Law School, has been appointed solicitor in the Canadian National Railways' law department at Winnipeg.

The C.N.R.'s new hotel in Montreal, the Queen Elizabeth, has more than 1,200 rooms and is the largest hotel in the British Commonwealth. It will open in the spring of 1958.

Army Camp Expansion

Population of the Alberta community of Wainwright swelled by nearly 2,000 last week, as militia troops of the Canadian Army poured in by train and transport for the annual week-long Western Command training camp. More than 100 British units and detachments representing 60 British Columbia and Alberta centres were encamped there throughout an area of 231 square miles of rolling Alberta countryside. Arrival of the militia brought the total population of Camp Wainwright to approximately 6,000, including some 4,000 regular troops who have been there since June 21.

SATURNA HOME IS CHRISTENED AT CELEBRATION

By R. V. K.

Many invitations were issued by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ralph, of Saturna Island, to celebrate the christening of their house and home.

To the accompaniment of popping champagne the name of "Cairn Brae" was bestowed on the house.

"Cairn Brae" is the name of the parental home of Mr. Ralph in Devonshire, England, and was chosen by him for his house and property here.

Mrs. Ralph welcomed her guests, gowned in pink satin-print over nylon. Everyone then followed outside to witness the christening.

In a short speech of explanation of the name and event, Mrs. Ruby Villars Kay performed the ceremony, splashing the house with champagne and in a loud voice calling three times "Cairn Brae" Cup" of champagne was partaken by the guests.

The Saturna Women's Service Club, in which Mrs. Ralph has worked for years, presented her with a pair of lovely green Venetian Crystal vases with silver inlay.

Mrs. Geo. Gordon and Mrs. Andy Ritchie presided at the tea urns and the youthful servers were Miss Betty Money, Miss Yolande Villars and Miss Lucinda Pillsbury.

The rooms were profusely decorated with flowers from "Tom Acres" the home of the Tom Cowans, of Saturna. A light incident was when Mrs. Micky Drader presented an outsize golden key on a velvet cushion to Mrs. Ralph. It is a well-known fact that "Cairn Brae" will always be open house to their many friends and a key must remain as always—a decoration.

Guests signing the visitors book were Mr. and Mrs. A. Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Dr. and Mrs. B. Hallows, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Little, Mrs. Ann Davis, Miss Stacey Davis, Miss Kay Cronin, Mrs. A. Deacon, of Mayne Island, Mrs. R. V. Kay, Miss Yolande Villars, Mr. Walter Warlow, Mrs. James Campbell, Miss Betty Money, Miss Cindy Pillsbury, Professor and Mrs. Pillsbury, Mrs. Eddie Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Newell, of Southern California, Mr. T. Cowan, Capt. and Mrs. Jones, Capt. and Mrs. Gordon, Capt. and Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. M. Drader, Mr. E. Gilbert, Mr. M. Lock, Mr. and Mrs. J. Money, Mr. B. Money, and Mrs. B. Hunt.

VIOLENT SHOCK FOR PASSENGERS

Collapse of the slipway at Port Washington last week occasioned delay in the discharge of passengers from the Cy Peck at the Pender Island wharf.

The vessel was diverted to Hope Bay to continue its unloading. The collapse also startled a number of passengers, particularly Mrs. Blatchford, of Port Washington, and her sister. Their car was leaving the wharf as the cable carrying the counterweight parted. The car dropped violently and the two ladies expected to be jettisoned into the water. Fortunately there was no ill-effect from the minor accident.

CONDUCTOR IS AWARDED BATON AFTER 25 YEARS

A much-enjoyed supper party was held by the Salt Spring Island Choral Society, Wednesday evening, July 24, at the waterfront home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Parsons, Fruitvale.

Picnic supper was served on the patio overlooking Ganges Harbor, and then games of horseshoe were played by both the ladies and men. Later in the evening a campfire on the beach was the setting for a number of songs.

This year marked the 25th anniversary of the forming of the choral society, and highlight of the affair was the presentation, by Mr. Zenkie, president of the society, to Mrs. Young, of a silver-mounted baton, suitably inscribed, for her 25 years as conductor.

Along with 45 other prospective nurses, Miss Mabley will participate in the C.M.E. three-year collegiate nursing program which leads to a bachelor of science degree. The clinical facilities of the Loma Linda Hospital and Sanitarium as well as those of the White Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles are utilized by the students. Both of these hospitals, with combined bed capacity for 500 patients, are owned and operated by the college. Approximately half the learning time of the student is spent on C.M.E.'s Los Angeles campus.

Some 800 students will be attending classes this fall in the College of Medical Evangelists' nine schools, including medicine, dentistry, and related technologies. The Southern California medical education centre is owned and operated by the Seventh-day Adventist church. First established in 1905, the school of nursing is the oldest of the C.M.E. schools.

Miss Mabley took pre-professional studies at Canadian Union College, College Heights, Alta.

PICTURES ARE RECEIVED WITH PROTEST

Two pictures appearing in a recent issue of The Review aroused concern among readers on Salt Spring Island. The Review had changed the locations of two island centres and showed Ganges under the heading of Vesuvius and vice versa.

The pictures were furnished by the B.C. Government Travel Bureau and the mistake was made in preparation of the paper, when the wrong lines were used under the pictures. The Review has assured readers who queried the pictures that there is no likelihood of the face of Salt Spring Island being changed despite the apparent switch.

During 1956 the C.N.R. built 270 industrial sidings, spurs and track extensions, totalling 53 miles.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM NOTES

WEEKLY REPORT OF NORTH SAANICH STATION

Every year at this time people are interested in the fruit on their apple trees but unfortunately they forget the tree itself. It is from now on that the canker disease Anthracnose can spread. The disease spreads during wet weather in the late summer and early fall. Anyone who has grown apples is familiar with the sunken elliptical cankers that start to enlarge in the early spring. This canker can girdle and kill a branch or de-vitalize the tree if one occurs on the trunk. It is these cankers that should be taken care of before there is any rain to spread the disease from them to new areas. The canker has stopped enlarging by this time but unless it is treated now new infection can come from it.

The cankers should be cut off and burned if they are on small branches. If it is impractical to do this then the canker should be scraped clean to live tissue, and the wound covered with Bracco. All diseased tissue must be burned.

To protect the trees against infection a Bordeaux spray (10-15-100) or a fixed copper spray applied about August 1 should control the disease for next year. If a prolonged rain occurs after the middle of July this spray will not mark the fruit but it is not as effective as the Bordeaux and two or three sprays will be necessary throughout the fall for adequate protection.

DRIFT HAZARDS
A new development in hormone-type herbicides is the production of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T in paste form. In past years these products have been available as esters or sodium or amine salts. The vapor tension of these particularly the esters, has given rise to drift hazards which at times have plagued the home owner and farmer, resulting in very severe injury to sensitive plants such as roses, tomatoes and grapes. In paste form the vapor tension is virtually eliminated and consequently there is much less danger of trouble from drift.

A small test was set up at the Experimental Farm this year to test the safety of 2,4-D paste when sprayed close to young tomato plants. The material which dissolves readily in water, was sprayed in a circle around different flats of tomatoes at a distance of 0, 2, 5 and 10 feet, using a fine spray. Weather at the time the treatments were applied in late May was bright and warm, with a slight breeze blowing, and was considered ideal for causing vaporization of the spray and drift injury.

Observations made on these flats showed that injury to the plants occurred only when the spray had been applied up to the edge of the flat. In this case it is likely that spray particles came into actual contact with the leaves, and that there was very little or no vaporization of the herbicide.

Hormone-type herbicides in paste form are not yet available in Canada, but with their advent, it should be possible to spray lawns for the control of weeds with much less danger of injury to susceptible

SANSCHA HELPS SAANICH FAIR

Use of children's merry-go-rounds built by Sanscha has been authorized for Saanich Fair in September.

On Tuesday evening Harold Dawson asked Sanscha, on behalf of Sidney Rotary Club, for the use of the equipment. The Rotarians will meet any out of pocket expenses incurred in the transportation and erection of the equipment at Saanich.

Sanscha will also assist the Rotary Club in the administration of the fair midway.

This attractive picture of sunlight and shade brings out the rustic beauty of the Pacific coast. Few parts of Canada can offer a more beautiful picture of summer than the westernmost populous island. When the leaves of the deciduous trees have fallen and the ground is carpeted with snow, the beauty of the scene will remain. It is British Columbia's greatest heritage.

CHEQUES ARE HIGHER THIS MONTH

Military and old-age pension cheques received by residents in the district this week were substantially higher than previously. The higher cheques were promised by the previous Liberal administration in Ottawa. A further boost has been promised by the present Progressive Conservative government at a fall session of parliament.

Refutes Figures

Architects' services are required on all construction projects exceeding a value of $30,000. The Review was informed this week.

A district architect and planning authority expressed concern that the Village of Sidney should assess minor construction projects under the same category.

He referred to a recent statement made at a village commission meeting, assessing fees payable on the projected new hall.

HIS NAME SURVIVES

AS BETWEEN-WARS WRITER IN DEMAND

His name will never be listed among the world's great classics, yet the books of Edgar Wallace are still maintaining a consistent sale, 25 years after his death. For nearly half a century the name has been synonymous with the thriller of the between war years. Edgar Wallace did not follow a style, he established it.

An orphan who spent his early years in a home of near-poverty he earned more than $50,000 during his most successful year and left only a few pounds when he died in 1932. He also left some 90 different books. The writer has diligently acquired Edgar Wallace novels until today he has 36 of those 90.

Wallace came to the publishing world the hard way. His first money was earned delivering newspapers. He gained employment on leaving school as a ship's cook, later abandoning the sea in favor of distributing milk. For a time he earned his living as a milk roundsman. Came the Boer War and Wallace was in South Africa as soldier and reporter. That experience was to change his entire life. He became special correspondent of the London Daily Mail and graduated to editor and writer.

His earliest books were based on the parts of Africa he had seen. He concocted a small outpost of administration and introduced Commissioner Sanders with his two white officers and native troops.

LIGHT TOUCH

It was later that he turned his attention to stories of criminal activities. A light, humorous touch, with a keen sense of the dramatic, gave his books a distinctive flavor. By the mid-twenties Edgar Wallace had become a household name. It would be difficult to assess how many copies of his writings were distributed. The number was undoubtedly astronomical. His stories found their way into almost every home and translations were sold in other countries. It was said of Hitler that he invariably kept an Edgar Wallace at his bedside for light, recreational reading.

There was never a suggestion of vulgarity or a passage of salacious intent to be found within the pages of his books. They were sold as light thrillers and could only gain a following on their own merits.

Many were the stories told of the writer. He was rumored to have written a book during a channel crossing from Dover to Calais. On another occasion he was said to have written two novels simultaneously. This was possible, for the style never changed from book to book, although the plots overlap in few instances.

There is a chronological stamp on his stories. They could not have been written prior to this century, but few could have been written after the Second World War. They belong to an era; the era of my own boyhood.

Flat 2 recalls a young mother reading to a blind couple. Green Rust was a few years later, when I could now read for myself a book which earlier had been boring. Each one has its associations. Perhaps that is why I decided to collect as many of his books as I could, so far from the city in which they were written.

A LEGEND

Reverting to the author, himself Edgar Wallace rose from obscurity to a publisher's legend, to die in conservative want. Upon his death in 1932, he left little money. Despite his stupendous earnings he had spent almost everything he had. Generous and reckless in his dissipation of money, he had saved almost nothing. He was in Hollywood negotiating for a film contract when he died.

Today, he is ignored by the encyclopedias, although Crowell's Readers' Encyclopedia mentions him as a writer of sensational fiction.

Edgar Wallace was an era, in the realm of writing. He was my era in the realm of reading and I shall never resist a pleasant couple of hours with one of his books.—F.G.R.
